TRINITY LAKE

Alpen Cellars Winery Offers Off Grid Glamping

Situated in a breathtaking mountain valley at the foot of the towering craggy peaks in the Trinity Lake region, the Alpen Cellars experience is an opportunity to taste award-winning wines, stay on-site in glamping tents, and connect with nature. The location offers unique charm by being one of California's only wineries to operate completely off the power grid. All grape varieties are grown on the estate property or sourced within the county, which is an area not known to grow wine grapes. The hidden gem's glamping tents outlook the vineyard and mountain valley. Sustainability and using the land's resources is a part of the Alpen experience. All the structures were created from trees on the property, and everything used is locally sourced or reused. This experience gives an appreciation to love the land and enjoy nature. The winery and glamping are open May-October, with the rest of the year by available appointment.

SAN FRANCISCO

Blue Whale Restaurant & Lounge Now Open in San Francisco

The new Blue Whale Restaurant & Lounge from Michelin-starred Chef Ho Chee Boon is a sprawling, sleek venue in the Marina. The restaurant opened in October and serves seasonal Asian cuisine. It features multiple dining areas, including a private dining lounge and a large open-air garden oasis tucked away in the backyard. Malaysian-born Boon introduces diners to favorite seasonal dishes and flavors inspired by his extensive travels and background. Blue Whale's menu includes crab meat Xiao Long Bao, wasabi crispy tiger prawns with pineapple, and baked lobster with buttermilk and chili. This is Chef Boon's second restaurant in San Francisco, following his elegant Cantonese restaurant, Empress by Boon, which opened in Chinatown in 2021.

Union Square's Chotto Matte San Francisco

Chotto Matte San Francisco is a rooftop restaurant in Union Square that showcases Nikkei cuisine, the amalgamation of Japanese techniques and Peruvian ingredients. The new venue opened in October as Chotto Matte's first outpost on the West Coast.

Signature menu highlights include the iconic Chotto branzino ceviche, tentáculos de pulpo, sato maki sushi and pollo den miso. The restaurant occupies the newly developed rooftop restaurant and wraparound terrace atop 100 Stockton St., affording stunning panoramic views of the city. The design is chic yet organic, with prominent Japanese lava stone and shou sugi ban wood.

Yokai Now Open in Downtown San Francisco

Yokai, a 60-seat hi-fi cocktail bar and charcoal grill, opened in September in downtown San Francisco. Inspired by Chef Marc Zimmerman's travels throughout Japan, Yokai pays homage to Japan's after-work food and drink culture with shareable plates and skewers cooked over binchotan charcoal. While wagyu is a focal point, the menu gives equal attention to fish and seafood selections, vegetables, and produce from Tenbrink Farms. The venue has a strong focus on Japanese whisky and cocktails, as well as brandies, cognacs and the budding Japanese gin scene.
